

Student Worksheet 4.1

Activity 4.1 Back to the Future
--

In this activity, you will consider what you believe the future of the world will be like.

Take a few moments to write down some words and phrases that describe what it would be like to be alive 100 years from now.

When you think about the future, are you thinking about your neighborhood, your town, the nation, or the world?

What will have to happen by next year, in three years, by 2005, by 2020, by 2050 in order for the world to change toward the kind of world you have envisioned the future?

What do you believe will be the major hinges on which to rest the doors to the future? What are the most significant processes that create our future?

Can you imagine some of the surprises that the future might hold?
