

AAG

AMERICAN ASSOCIATION of GEOGRAPHERS

1701 Pennsylvania Avenue NW
Suite 325
Washington, DC 20006
Voice 202-234-1450
Fax 202-234-2744
gaia@aag.org
<https://www.aag.org>

AAG Councilors

President

Rebecca Lave
Indiana University Bloomington

Vice President

Patricia Ehrkamp
University of Kentucky

Past President

Marilyn Raphael
University of California, Los Angeles

Secretary

Dydia DeLysér
California State University, Fullerton

Treasurer

Marcia England
Miami University

Heike Alberts
University of Wisconsin Oshkosh

Mark Barnes
Morgan State University

Pablo Bose
University of Vermont

Rebecca Buller
University of Nebraska-Lincoln

Amariah Fischer
Kansas State University

Debarchana Ghosh
University of Connecticut

Heidi Lannon
Santa Fe College

Colleen Myles
Texas State University

Steven M. Schnell
Kutztown University of Pennsylvania

Steven Silvern
Salem State University

Patricia Solís
Arizona State University

Jeremy Tasch
Towson University

Edna Wangui
Ohio University

Antoinette M.G.A. WinklerPrins
National Science Foundation

Sofía Zaragocin Carvajal
Universidad San Francisco de Quito

Executive Director

Gary Langham

March 12, 2024

Honorable Eric Holcomb
Office of the Governor
Statehouse
Indianapolis, IN 46204-2797

Dear Governor Holcomb,

The American Association of Geographers strongly urges you to veto SB 202, a measure that purports to strengthen intellectual diversity at Indiana's public colleges and universities but instead severely limits academic freedom. In particular, the rights of faculty to teach students from their expertise and knowledge, without regard to ideology or intrusive oversight, is curtailed by the measure. Veiling its intent in language that pretends to indicate high regard for free inquiry, SB 202 instead targets free inquiry by exerting ideological control over professors and classrooms through draconian tenure review policies created and overseen by their boards of trustees.

Tenure policies do not need revision in Indiana. Furthermore, this bill is not a mere procedural tweak, it is a dangerous overstep. Faculty would be denied tenure or promotion if deemed "unlikely to foster a culture of free inquiry, free expression, and intellectual diversity ... unlikely to expose students to scholarly works from a variety of political or ideological frameworks...; or likely...to subject students to political or ideological views and opinions that are unrelated to the faculty member's academic discipline or assigned course of instruction." Is there a future Indiana geography classroom where a casual remark about current events, or the decision to create a course around the works of a single influential geographer, could make a professor subject to disciplinary action, dismissal, or denied tenure?

SB 202 is unlikely to advance cultural or intellectual diversity in Indiana. We ask you to look more closely at the real need in classrooms right now: A recent Knight Foundation study shows that while many students feel the erosion of free speech protections on campus, white students have the most confidence that their own free speech is protected, while students of color feel the least protected. For true cultural and intellectual diversity to flourish on campuses, professors must feel confident and unthreatened in their careers, so that they can share a range of resources and ideas with their students, and so that historically unheard voices will be heard in the classroom.

We urge Indiana to continue to protect freedom of inquiry in classrooms, by rejecting SB 202.

Rebecca Lave, PhD
AAG President

Gary Langham, PhD
AAG Executive Director